Think of a Number is played with a standard deck of 52 cards, with the Jokers removed. The gameplay can be summarized as follows:

1. Card Distribution: Players are dealt a random hand of cards, typically consisting of five to seven cards.
2. Choosing a Hidden Number: One player, known as the "mindreader," secretly chooses a number between 1 and 52.
3. Face Card Play: The remaining players take turns flipping over face cards from a separate deck until a card matching the mindreader's secret number is revealed.
4. Matching Number: If a player successfully reveals the card with the matching number, they win the round.
5. Mindreader's Guesses: The mindreader can make strategic guesses based on the cards played by other players to try and determine the secret number.

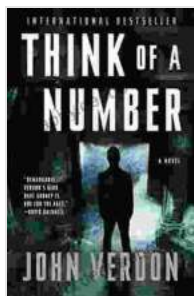

The game continues in this manner until one player successfully reveals the mindreader's secret number, or the deck of face cards is exhausted without a match.
